

McGraw Gives Matty a Parting Gift of Two Ball Games

IN ALL FAIRNESS By W. J. MACBETH

THE world's series of 1912, between the Giants and Red Sox, established a number of records which are likely to stand for some years, if they survive the approaching classic.

In that historic struggle of five years ago more than 252,000 admissions swelled the total gate receipts to $490,823. The rival league champions were so evenly matched that a decision was not reached until after eight games had been played. One of the earlier games resulted in an extra inning tie.

With just a little better break in the luck (financially speaking) that Boston-New York tie probably would have set a mark that would have survived present baseball accommodations. By a strange freak of fate, five of the eight battles were staged at Fenway Park, which was incapable of accommodating anywhere near the numbers who might have been accommodated at the Polo Grounds. The tie game was played at Boston, and under the rules had to be played off in that city. Boston won the toss for the "rubber."

Handsome as were the receipts of that 1912 series, they might have been swelled beyond the half million mark had Hub fandom not soured on the management during the series. The eighth game was practically boycotted because of some mix-up which failed to retain for the "Royal Rooters" the sections that had been set aside for them in the bleachers.

The coming series between the Giants and White Sox should be the greatest financial bonanza of the game's history. Of course, it is unlikely that the series will go as far as that of five years ago. Yet if seven, let alone eight, games are played, it is pretty certain that a richer melon will be cut than that of 1912.

Chicago Revenue the Richer

ONE has seen a lot in the papers recently of Ban Johnson's fight for the Chicago laboring man. It is true the scale of prices in the Windy City looks far more alluring in cold type than New York's tariff. But the fact remains that every game in Chicago will assure richer dividends than the corresponding game in New York.

The answer is simple enough. Brush Stadium, it is true, will accommodate several thousands more than Comiskey Park. But the latter runs far more heavily to the expensive seats. The 25-cent bleachers at Chicago, which will furnish the only 50-cent spaces to the big show, are a negligible quantity. The playing field at the Polo Grounds will be kept absolutely clear. In Chicago temporary structures will swell the seating capacity of Comiskey Park approximately to that of Brush Stadium. Most of these temporary structures are devoted to box seats at $5 each. A seven-games series this year, therefore, should give the 1912 receipts a terrible jolt.

Typical National Commission Generosity

THE National Commission, which controls organized baseball in general and the world's championship series in particular, gets the "Hard Boiled Egg" title without a murmur of dissent.

The triumvirate has actually agreed to donate 1 per cent of its share in the world's series to Clark Griffith's Bat and Ball Fund. The National Commission usually lives pretty well all season, and especially well in the world's series times. It will be found in all its opulence at the Congress Hotel in Chicago and at the Waldorf in New York during the coming classic. It will ride to and fro in a special excess tariff train.

Though the National Commission lives well, it has not yet been able to devise ways and means of investing the surplus that has accrued from world's series contests since 1905. A slice of bread, no matter how thin, is better than no bread at all. It is unlikely that Griffith will look a gift horse in the mouth.

But still, the National Commission, which is supposed to represent all that is good and fair and sportsmanlike in the national game—a commission that is rich enough to pay a couple of umpires $1,000 a series to decorate the outfield scenery—should be ashamed to advertise such a pitiful pittance of charity toward a cause so commendable.

The Ball and Bat Fund, in other words, will receive one mill on every dollar taken in at the gate. To realize the sum that will be paid one extra and useless umpire it would be necessary for the series to play to a million dollar gate.

A Different Sort of Sportsmanship

HOW different the sportsmanship of two well known American League club presidents! Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the champion White Sox, has given 10 per cent of his home receipts to the Red Cross this year. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of the Yankees, has given quite as freely to war charities of all descriptions. The Colonel, in addition, has had his club play many exhibitions for the benefit or entertainment of soldiers in training.

The American League season in this city will be concluded this week in a short series between the Yankees and Athletics. It does not promise to be an exceptionally thrilling one. But, such as it is, it will be played for the benefit of the military. When Colonel Ruppert made the offer he did not know but that the series in question might be one of the richest ones of the season.

A Great Boost for Football

FOOTBALL, as played by American college teams, is proving its usefulness as both recreation and physical training for the soldiers in training of the United States.

The preliminary gridiron season opened Saturday, and it was pleasing to note that many of the more important minor colleges engaged soldier teams for their first try-outs. In these games the soldiers made most creditable showings, in view of the fact that they have little time to specialize on the sport. The army, of course, just now boasts much of the best material of the country, but necessarily this strength is greatly scattered. That military teams are able to make a stand against even the weaker colleges speaks volumes for the general physical ability and mental aptitude of Uncle Sam's defenders.

Harvard "Crimson" Goulet Captures Ten-Mile Race

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 30.—The Harvard "Crimson" editorially calls upon the undergraduates to put the best football team possible into the field this fall. To get word that their alma mater is playing the old game will be good tonic to help Harvard men forget the discomforts of trench life abroad, the "Crimson" declares, and further states:

"It is inevitable that in spite of any ready-made dictum of any national or sectional athletic organization there would be football this fall. When the frosty delirium of autumn is in the air and the southern sun shines on the gladiators of the past, and no less proud defeats.

Through the five continents he followed up in war and the Kaiser was in embattled trenches a thousand miles away with fierce conceit of conquest, still football will go on. As long as there is one ball to boot and one goal line to cross and two men to shoulder to shoulder at the last stand on the fourth down football will go on.

The good football man plays well at the game of life. There are few shirkers among the line and backfield. There are no cowards. So very many have gone that only the barest resemblance of a team may be organized. That speaks well for the value of football as training.

"Who are left in the college must put a good football team on the field; not simply a winning team, but a clean team, a hard-fighting team and gentlemanly. That is in justification to ourselves. That is in justification to the nation and that there are some brave enough to fill the place they left vacant."

Jack o' Lantern Wins Race

PORTCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The Jack o' Lantern, owned by Commodore Leonard H. Dyer, won from Walter H. Bowers' Bobbie in the race among arrow-class yachts over the Indian Harbor Yacht Club five-mile course to-day. The winning margin was 1 minute and 5 seconds.

Pietila Victor In All-Around At Ulmer Park

Kaleva A. C. Athlete Has Five-Point Margin Over Vickstrom

By A. C. Cavagnaro

A margin of five points gave Mike Pietila, of the Kaleva Athletic Club, the first all-around championship of the Scandinavian-American Athletic League, which was decided at Ulmer Park yesterday. Right on his heels for the honors was Ralph Vickstrom, a much younger athlete. In the five events contested Pietila scored 2,332.96 points, and Vickstrom, who represented the Swedish-American Athletic Club, gathered 2,327.89 points.

Only four of the other scheduled eleven starters were on hand to compete, but the fight for the title was keen throughout. Vickstrom led home his fields in three events, while Pietila registered his only first place victory by defeating Vickstrom in his heat of the 200-meter race. The other athlete to gain first place was Emil Toumanine, Kaleva Athletic Club, in the javelin.

The cold wind from the Lower Bay proved a handicap against the efforts of the competitors to break records. This was particularly true in the discus event, in which Vickstrom made the winning toss of 94 feet 4 1/2 inches.

Thrills in Sprint

Vickstrom and Pietila furnished the thrills in both the 200-meter and one-mile runs, the latter event being the final one, and taxing the stamina of the athletes. In the sprint race the two runners sped along together until entering the homestretch, when Vickstrom weakened, and Pietila went on to win by five yards.

The one-mile race found Vickstrom a winner by fifty yards. Pietila followed the hot pace set by his rival until the final circuit of the weed-covered track, when he had to give way.

In the team competition the Kaleva boys again triumphed, with 5,476.75 points to 5,381.15.
